"Gladius - Relics of War" is a turn-based, asymmetric war game, set in the mysterious system of the Gladius Dominant galaxy. The War over the most precious resource on the planet of Gladius Prime has reached its tragic climax. The four rivals - one the materialist Nadir Empire, the other the fanatical Dark Eldar, the reptilian Kaldor and the sadistic and manipulative Ork hordes - have come to the decision of one last stand. But, in this epic struggle, even a last hope - the colossal Dreadnought - is lost, and the survivors will fight for their lives on the blood-soaked battlefields of Gladius Prime. The players' actions decide the fate of this planet. Key Features • Asymmetric gameplay • Multiple-choice decisions • Classical and realistic turn mechanics • Alien Races • A lot of blood and gore • Massive multiplayer combat The game was funded with the help of our fans! Thank you so much! The game is released on Xbox One, PlayStation®4, and PC. The game will be released on Steam and Humble Bundle shortly. Quantification of retinal nerve fiber layer thickness in normal subjects by optical coherence tomography. We used an optical coherence tomography (OCT) system to determine the normal variations in retinal nerve fiber layer (RNFL) thickness and its possible effect on automated or manual measurements of the disc. We studied 50 eyes of 50 volunteers (age range, 23 to 79 years) with a horizontal or radial scan of the optic nerve by OCT. Each patient underwent visual acuity, refraction, ophthalmoscopy, and measurement of the optic nerve head and macula. The RNFL was automatically measured by 3 algorithms. Also, we measured the average RNFL thickness in each quadrant, as well as the nasal and temporal quadrants, separately. The average RNFL thickness was 116.4 +/- 16.8 microm (means +/- SD). With OCT, RNFL thickness, along with the automatic measurements, was more precisely determined. We found that there were greater variations in the temporal RNFL than in the nasal RNFL. The differences between the temporal and nasal RNFL are great enough to influence automated measurements of the optic nerve head. 1. (#20) The Day the Faun bought Chicken Wings The Watorl locked up the Faun as soon as they confirmed what happened. While everyone waited, Heika asked Jack if he was having fun. Jack said he had to go over to test a new axe. He was going to have a fun few days on his own. "But aren't you going to do anything else after school?" asked Heika. Jack said, "I don't think so." He looked at Raeliana who was looking at the others. He was waiting for their reaction. "I'm not going to play with you two," said Jack. Raeliana said she thought all of the fairies hated the duke. Had someone told Jack, his behavior would have never happened in the first place. So Heika's fairy told Jack later. "I hope that someone didn't upset Jack," said Heika. "Which someone?" asked Raeliana. Heika said, "Mia." Mia loved Jack. If he ever said bad things about the duke, she would not have any power to protect him. But was Mia making Jack upset? Then Raeliana was curious. "Who is Mia?" she asked. "I don't know," said Heika. "Is Jack working on a secret mission?" asked Raeliana. "No," said Heika. He walked over to Mia and visited her. She said, "I can't stay mad at you." Heika said, "I'm going to surprise Jack." Then he dropped to the ground. He invited Mia into the fairy camp. He was going to tell Jack at the right moment. The Duke was furious at Mia. She stole Jack, the duke's most valuable toy. So, when Mia came with her answers, Heika asked her for more. Mia said she was sorry. So, he let her in. The next day, Mia stayed by herself out in the castle. Everyone started taking pictures of her in all the fancy clothes. Raeliana could not believe her eyes. Jack never visited Mia. He never told her he ards Dungeon is a game for one or more players. The rules of the game are not game paper but are conveniently, written down on the eight billiard tables available. Each table starts with twelve white balls and three red balls: red, green and yellow.

reate each individual ball the player chooses a color; to create a pocket the player chooses a number and throws a ball. In the game you can only create a white ball by choosing "White" and if the ball lands on a pocket, you rid of a ball of another color. You should only create a pocket if it is empty.

en a player creates a ball but does not throw it, he/she can throw one of the three balls available. Two players can play in this mode.

en two or more players throw a ball there is a knock-off effect: a ball with the same color as the thrown ball goes to the player who throws that particular ball and the knock-off is not lost but can be placed in the same et for another throw. If three balls land on a table at the same time, the one who throws the green ball becomes the owner of the table and can throw the next ball.

n a player throws a ball a counter is added up. The number increases with each throw of the ball. When a player chooses "Able" the balls are thrown faster.

game has two play modes: adventure and victory. In adventure mode the goal is to create as many pockets as possible in the shortest possible time. In victory mode the goal is to reach a certain number of points. In both es only one ball can be thrown at each time.

play the game in a simple 3D environment. You can view the whole playing field and catch all of the current ball positions. Available is the ability to rotate around in any direction.
